HTML5

Wen-Yen Wang

Course description

▸ Introduction to HTML5 web page design: introduction to an integrated front-end design for Web; html5, CSS, JavaScript, or JQuery computer language are used in this course. The software related to the front-end design is also introduced in this course to help students understand how IT is working on the front-end.

Books

- No textbooks in this course

- The course handouts are provided and designed by the course professor.

- Any books are welcome for your self-study use.

Grading

▸ Midterm: 20% - computer-based exam

▸ Final exam: 20%- computer-based exam

▸ Performance: 60% - including exercises, Homework, and course verification

◆ There are 2 course verification being hold in this course. The points from the verification, exercises, and Homework will be transformed into course grades in the end of this semester. And, the points of each course verification will be announced in prior to the exam

◆ Suggest to earn more than 50 points before the end of this semester to pass this course.

▸

Q&A